

Here are the hikes that are planned for March. We hope to see you on the trails!

March, 3, 2023	Hillary Kambour	Jack London Mountain Trail. 6.3 Miles out and back 1660 ft elevation. Starts off easy through vineyards and a light forest. Once you enter the redwood part the incline steepens and is very well shaded. Then opens up again to dry hills and large oaks. The last 20 minutes was the toughest but super rewarding up top. Views of the Sonoma valley. Meet at City Hall at 9. Bring lunch, poles, hat and water. Back in Healdsburg no later than 3.
March 10, 2023	Neita Commings	Kortum Trail- Shell Beach Jenner
March 24, 2023		No Leader Hike: Meet at 9:30 at the Healdsburg Community Center Parking Lot to do the Chiquita Road Loop
March 31, 2023	Hillary Kambour	Marin Headlands I know it's a long drive, but let's head down to the Marin Headlands for this fabulous hike starting at the Visitor Center heading up the Miwok Trail over to Wolf Trail and then hooking onto the Coastal trail. This hike has it all — hillsides, war history and of course breathtaking views of the ocean, the city and the Golden Gate Bridge 6.5 miles and 1100 ft elevation. Bring lunch, poles, hat and water. Let's meet at City Hall at 8:30 to beat the traffic on the way back. We should be back in our cars at 1:30 and back in Healdsburg before 3.
